LIFE

Has it been a while since you took stock of where you are going? And how about your church? You know what I mean, thinking and taking a hard look at yourself and the church. We need to set aside time for evaluation and regrouping our life. Even the sports world has its time-outs, seventh-inning stretch, pit stops and half time, so why shouldn't we. Force yourself to pull off the road, put your pace into neutral, and ask some hard questions.

1. Are you happy, challenged, and fulfilled?
2. Where is God and the church in your life?
3. Is your direction of your life leading to a satisfying and meaningful future?
4. Are you spending time with your family?
5. Do they really know how you feel about life? (Value system, morals, loyalty, integrity, generosity, honesty, etc...)

6. Is your family aware that they are worthwhile and valuable? And know how much you love them?
7. And have you told them about Jesus and his church?

For what are you asking Jesus on behalf of your life and your family? I challenge you to stop long enough to think it over. And don't just think, get alone and write down your thoughts, your dreams, your aspirations. Refuse to let activity interrupt and don't put it off.

Home is a lot of things.... But mainly it is the place where life makes up its mind.

By doing these questions, it will help you to get back on target in your life and your church's life. And you will be able to say, "I have not lived in vain".

See you in church this summer!

Rev. Walter Coy
